Along the Way...

Here are a couple of poems about hawks:

HAWKS

I loved seeing those hawks
just now, how obliquely the sun gave tinge fleeting and flushed to steering feathers.
Red-tailed we call these hunting creatures,
though when close, not fifty feet above,
they are buff and bland in the belly.
Only astroke the curving air
in afternoon light do some feathers flicker rouge enough to suggest that name to we who are the naming creatures.

A HAWK AT TWENTY YARDS

Has eyes
of jewel blackness needs not our admiration.

I have never been a serious birder—no expeditions, no life lists—and only in latter years have come to a keener appreciation of these dinosaur descendants found almost everywhere—ground and sky, wood and lake, ocean and desert, winter and summer. I happened to live for a time near a reserved area of ponds, woods and meadow crossed by very tall, high-voltage transmission lines. You couldn't design a better habitat for raptors and soon I came to recognize the little, hawk-formed apostrophes on the spars of the towers. They spent their time doing what raptors do, looking for things to eat at the interface of tall grass, trees and streams. They were also bold, perching at times in small trees if that's where they thought they could find a meal, and couldn't have cared less about the occasional human with binoculars leaning on a car roof at twenty yards, breathless with excitement at seeming to look directly into their enormous, hunter's eyes.

I also lived for a few years in Arlington Heights, Massachusetts, a densely populated suburb of greater Boston that borders Belmont and Cambridge. Thus, it is hardly a nature preserve, but many times saw a pair of red tailed hawks hunting over a patch of scrub bordering a ball field hard by busy Route 2, and more than once perched in a poplar bordering my backyard, smack in the middle of fifty homes. They hardly seemed bothered by cars, humans and houses, in fact, didn't seem much to notice us. I'm happy about that. With all of our human self-centeredness, it is well to be reminded of our true place in the world.

See you in church,

Steve

RE Committee Volunteers Needed! - Please think about joining the RE Committee as we meet to discuss important issues affecting RE in our church and UU churches across New England. I hope to inspire the congregation to begin the journey of transitioning traditional Religious Education into a progressive Family Ministry. Come learn about what Family Ministry is and be an active part of change and growth! If you are interested, please contact Co-DRE, Mesha Quinn.

Food Security Seminar - First Parish UU Church in Portland is holding a Food Security Seminar taught by Donna Beegle entitled, "Closing Maine's Hunger Gap: Exploring Myths, Realities, Solutions." Donna Beegle, president of Communications Across Barriers, is a nationally-acclaimed expert on understanding the causes of and solutions to poverty and hunger. If you are unable to attend, but interested, do not worry! The information from this event will be included in the Adult RE Poverty Workshop. The seminar is free and will be held on 10/18 at 11:00am at First Parish Church, Portland, ME. You must register for the event as seating is limited. Registration information can be found below or by emailing Lisa Lindenschmidt at lminden@maine.edu

Adult RE Workshop Opportunity - Over 46 million people live in poverty in the United States. As a certified Poverty Coach through Dr. Donna Beegle's Poverty Institute, Mesha Quinn will guide the group through a 7-week Poverty Workshop as we explore poverty and how to make a difference. At the completion of the workshop participants will be armed with information and strategies to "fight poverty, not the people living in it." The workshops will be held following Sunday church services in Goodall Hall for 7 weeks, beginning on October 8th through November 19th, and will be 1 hour in length. For more information, please contact Co-DRE, Mesha Quinn. A sign-up sheet will be available before and after church services. "Poverty is resolvable, however, making a difference for people who live in the crisis of poverty requires a paradigm shift. A shift that moves us beyond stereotypes and judgment to a deeper understanding of the causes of poverty and its impact on human beings. With this awareness, we can work together to provide genuine opportunities for people to move out of poverty." -- Donna Beegle.

SUUC Book Group - Our readers agreed that Harriet Learner's book: "Why Won't You Apologize? Healing Big Betrayals and Everyday Hurts" will be our next read. We normally meet on the third Friday of the month, but this month we will meet on Friday, October 27th at 6:00pm in Goodall Hall. All are welcome.

Snow Removal - We are putting out a request for help with snow removal, if anyone knows of a strong, dependable person to help Bob McCormick with snow blowing and shoveling this winter, please contact Bob.

Mainers for Health Care - Mainers for Health Care needs YOUR HELP to get out the YES vote for Referendum #2, Expanding Medicaid to 70,000 low income Mainers. If you are not available during the scheduled canvass/phone bank hours, you can still help by receiving a quick one on one training and you can work on your turf or phone list on your own schedule. For more information, please contact Patty Kidder at 324-8995 (h) or 608-7956 (c).

Ministerial Search Committee Update

The Ministerial Search Committee (MSC) is continuing to work through steps towards a new shared minister. The surveys are completed and the Cottage meetings are almost completed (Saco/Biddeford church has one more Sunday). Then the rush is on to compile all this information and complete the Congregational Report that has to be reviewed and then submitted on October 31. Any searching Ministers can then review our document on November 1.

Our next projects are generating a web page – that process is underway. And then to devote all hands to the “packet” which is a collection of everything that might explain who we are, our passions, how we have fun... so Lee is going around to both churches taking some video. We also have people collecting documentation, past stories, doing interviews... the packet has to be completed by the end of December and posted on a password-protected website for searching Ministers to visit.

January 1, 2018 the Ministerial Search Committee gets to see what Ministers are searching and to read their information.

There will be times when you, the congregation, wants to know who, where, why.... And once we start reviewing potential Ministers everything (and I mean everything) is confidential. So I will apologize in advance for times when the MSC may seem secretive... we are. Some congregations don't know their Minister is searching, some Ministers would prefer to not be bombarded with questions from current congregants or from potential congregants.

Both the Sanford and Saco/Biddeford churches will get to meet and hear the final candidate. Then they will get to vote on accepting (or not) the candidate. The MSC carries all the feedback from the surveys, cottage meetings and face-to-face conversation in evaluating the final candidate that we hope will fit our needs, wants, desires, passions, dreams... and everything in between.

Lisa Huestis - MSC Chairman

Thoughts from the President

Today, I want to write about being amazed. I am amazed at the variety of requests made, and questions needing answers, which arise in the process of running our church. In August, we received requests to use our building from both the Maine Transgender Network and Our Theater Company. We welcome MTN, who will hold support meetings in the Parlor and Goodall Hall every first and third Tuesday of the month. The Board unfortunately could not grant OTC as many hours as were needed to rehearse and produce their three plays this year, and I want to thank the Board members for communicating promptly and thoughtfully on both these requests. Also, great thanks to Mona and Bill Ouellette, two people who I've discovered take care of numerous requests in an amazing way every single day!

Our amazing Ministerial Search Committee requested your thoughts and desires regarding a new minister, and the enthusiastic responses from our church family to the Survey and the two Cottage Meetings were, again, amazing. (This support wasn't surprising; it's who we have always been!) And just when I think my pride in this congregation cannot be stronger, I witness a service whose brilliance captivates me. On September 24, the Worship Associates presented such a service, and everyone in attendance was moved deeply by their words. It's amazing how the WAs come up with such fulfilling services time after time! I'm sure they heard the words "thank you" many times that Sunday, and it is truly deserved.

Finally, I want to share a request from our Directors of Education, Ryan and Mesha Quinn. They will very soon be in need of a home, since they've just had word that their landlord wants to sell the house they've rented and loved for five years. Please spread the word to all your colleagues, neighbors, and friends that an amazing family of eight needs to rent a house, preferably in Sanford, before December. We may be a small congregation in numbers, but we are hugely amazing in spirit.

~ever in hope, Diane

What 'Spirit of Life' Means to Me

by Helen Kane

I first came to know 'Spirit of Life' in 1992 at the UU Church of Buffalo, where our inestimable Minister of Music, the late Barbara Wagner, introduced it for probable inclusion in our soon-to-be new hymn book, Singing the Living Tradition, for which she was a member of the Resources Commission. The flowing, lilting accompaniment to Carolyn McDade's prayer transported me to a transcendent place of ineffable joy and sadness that touches something deep in the human heart.

When one learns that Carolyn McDade - one of the two originators of our Water Ceremony, incidentally - wrote her prayer at a time when she had been engaging in social justice work at home and abroad, to a point beyond exhaustion verging on total depletion, one can better understand why it is so very moving.

"I feel like a dried piece of cardboard that has been in the attic, and I'll be dust. I was tired, not with my community, but with the world," she expressed to Kimberly French in an October, 2007, interview for UU World. She describes walking into her house, finding her piano, and PRAYING, not writing, the resultant plea: "May I not drop out." Such divine inspiration is a rarity, and it touches us at our core.

Spirit of Life, come unto me.
Sing in my heart all the stirrings of compassion.
Blow in the wind, rise in the sea;
Move in the hand, giving life the shape of justice.
Roots hold me close; wings set me free;
Spirit of Life, come to me, come to me.

Sadly, I no longer have the original accompaniment, but it was much like the fluid version Ruth plays so feelingly each Sunday. I must tell you from personal experience that when I play the more prosaic form from our hymnal, our just having been entrusted with the deepest sorrows and exquisite joys of members of our congregation, there are rare times when the reverent response is a palpable beating of hearts and breathing together in perfect synchronicity. For a precious moment in time, we are one. It is a profound and deeply humbling experience. For me, 'Spirit of Life' is the spiritual essence, the soul, of our worship service. It is a bulwark that sustains me against the buffets of the coming week: safe, sure, reliable--until it isn't any more.....
